BANKERS TO USE RIOT GUNS DEMOCRACY ON FINAL TEST, WILSON TELLS CONGRESS

President Allen-co Bankers' Association Warns Officials to Arm for Protection Against Raids by Bandits

Nearly All Financial Institutions in County Prepared for Quick Action in Event of Visit by Robbers

With sensational daylight bank robberies occurring almost daily in all parts of Ohio and other states in the middle west, E. T. Mitchell, president of the Allen County Bankers' Association, warned all bankers Tuesday to take precautions against a possible raid by bandits.

The present crime wave seems to be centering around bold robberies of banks, and in most cases the robbers have been successful where banks have not taken precautions.

According to Mitchell, practically all banks in Allen-co have been fortified. His warning applies to those which have not taken steps to insure them against possible raids.

WARNING ESPECIALLY SOUNDED FOR SMALL BANKS IN RURAL COMMUNITIES

Rural banks, where robberies are occurring more frequently, are especially warned to take extraordinary steps in arming with riot guns or other weapons which should be kept in the reach of all employees at all times.

It is believed by police here that the five bandits who robbed the bank at Grove City last Friday and abandoned their car here are hiding in this vicinity and that it is possible that they may attempt another hold-up when fear subsides.

HARDING TO QUIT SENATE JAN. 10

Will Then Open Way for New Ohio Republican Senator

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — President-elect Harding took a busy round of conferences Tuesday before leaving Washington at four o'clock for his home in Marion.

The program arranged by the president-elect was not made public, but it was understood that during the day he would discuss domestic, as well as international issues, with a number of members of senate and house. Neither was it disclosed whether Mr. Harding would call at the White House to see president Wilson and the best information seemed to be that the president and the president-elect would not meet as did their wives Monday, when Mrs. Harding accepted Mrs. Wilson's invitation to tea at the White House.

The president-elect in his conference Tuesday was expected to reiterate his request made Monday to congressional leaders that the federal law-making body lay aside partisanship and endeavor to clear away all routine business before March 4, and lay the basis for constructive legislation to be considered at the extra session which he announced he probably would call soon after his inauguration.

He named revision of the federal tax laws as one of the measures he would like to see considered at that extra session.

On leaving Washington late Tuesday Senator Harding will take final leave of the senate, altho he will retain his seat and title until between January 10 and 15, he said he plans to resign and allow the incoming Republican governor of Ohio to name a Republican probably Senator-elect Willis, to succeed him.

Wilson To Get Peace Prize

COPENHAGEN—(By Associated Press) — Announcement is made that the Nobel Peace prize will be conferred on President Wilson of the United States, on December 10.

The Nobel Peace prize carries with it a grant of about $40,000, which is one-fifth of the annual interest on about $3,000,000 left for that purpose by Alfred B. Nobel, the Swedish scientist and the inventor of dynamite who died in 1896. The only two Americans who have in the past received the Nobel Peace prize, were Theodore Roosevelt in 1906, and Elihu Root in 1912.

LEAGUE BOLTERS LEAVE GENEVA

Argentine Delegates Depart for Home Following Withdrawal

GENEVA — (By Associated Press) — Announcement was made Tuesday that Honorable Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine delegation which has withdrawn from the assembly of the league of nations, will leave Geneva Tuesday night. It was said at the Argentine headquarters Tuesday morning that the rest of the delegation would depart Wednesday.

Plans for co-operation on technical organizations of the league of nations by representatives of Armenia and former Russian states, the Argentine delegates are not admitted to full membership in the league, were discussed by the assembly of the league here Tuesday. This was the principal item on the agenda, having been brought into prominence by the decision Monday of the committee on the admission of new states.

PROBLEMS AHEAD

The assembly also continued the work of laying a working basis for the league which would enable it to function as efficiently as possible, pending the time necessary to get a clear interpretation of various matters and note the practical effects of the intricate system by which the assembly and council dovetail into each other.

The most enthusiastic supporters of the league now admit there are problems in the covenant which seem, for the moment at least, beyond solution, since it is impossible to tell how present arrangements are going to work out. The general policy adopted seems to be to let time work out a solution of some problems.

Work in the typhus campaign now going on in Poland and plans looking to the welfare of children in Europe were discussed Tuesday.

CAUCUS ON TODAY

Ohio Senate Republicans Meet to Name Officers

COLUMBUS — (By Associated Press) — The republican senate caucus meets for organization here with everything indicating that the gathering will be one of the tamer ever held in the state.

Thirty-six of the 37 members of the senate being Republicans, the caucus assumes the nature of a regular session of that body.

Candidates for president pro tem, clerk and assistants, sergeant-at-arms and assistants will have been nominated before night, and a committee on committees named. Practically the entire set of officials which composed the last senate is expected to be named today, and, it is said, the only place where friction may arise is in the handing out of patronage.

It has been customary to give some patronage to each senator of the party in control. It is unusual, however, to have so many of the controlling party in office, so that it may be difficult to find enough patronage to go round.

BAPTISTS MEET

CINCINNATI — Missionaries to many lands were present when convention of the Baptist Missionary Assembly, East Central division opened here Tuesday.

Mrs. F. P. Beaver, Dayton, presided at the session of the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Missions Society and Franklin G. Smith, Ireland, at the meeting of the Baptist Board of Missions.

A district embrace, Indiana and West Virginia.

CANNERS CONVENTION

COLUMBUS — (By Associated Press) — Representatives from 150 canning factories are meeting here Tuesday for the first of a two day annual convention, the program for which calls for discussion of subjects pertinent to the canning industry, with an election of officers marking the closing session.

L. G. Bingham, state sanitary inspector, was to have explained house bill 40, which specifies what canners must do to live up to state laws.

E. A. Kerr, national publicity manager; Walter J. Sears, Cincinnati, president, and A. M. Wadsworth, Columbus, supervisor of inspection in Ohio, all representing the National Canners' Association inspection service agency, will attend the meetings.

AUTO MYSTERY IS DEEPENING

Mysterious "Miss Jackson" Sought by Lima Police

WOMAN IN BLACK TRACED

Engaged Room in Manhattan Hotel But Didn't Occupy It

Mystery deepened Tuesday surrounding the identity of the woman in black and the occupants of the red touring car abandoned in an alley near the Morris Arcade late Friday afternoon.

The automobile, taken in charge by police, is believed to be the same used by bandits who early Friday held up and robbed the Grove City bank of nearly $200,000 in currency and bonds.

It was later identified as having been stolen from Columbus. Police turned it over to its owner.

ENTER, "MISS JACKSON"

Tuesday a veil of uncertainty began to weave around a mysterious "Miss Jackson of Cincinnati" who registered late Friday afternoon at the Hotel Manhattan, W. High-st.

A clerk at the hotel said the mysterious woman came in at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. She was dressed in black. She registered as "Miss Jackson" and was assigned to room 12.

Employees at the hotel say the woman, young, pretty and well dressed, deposited a sum of money at the desk and went to her room.

A short time later she reappeared in the lobby lavishly dressed in a costly garment. She had made a complete change of costume.

"It must have been six o'clock when she left the hotel and walked east on High-st," said one of the clerks.

She did not return to her room Friday night.

The description seemed to dovetail with that of the woman seen alighting from the supposed bandit car as it drew to a standstill in the alley two or three hours earlier the same afternoon.

TAXICAB EMPLOYED

However, hotel attendants say the mysterious "Miss Jackson" came to the hotel in a taxicab. She carried a traveling bag.

After spending Friday night away from her room, the woman returned Saturday morning, paid her bill and departed.

While hotel authorities were not inclined to connect her with the bandit car and the robbery of the Grove City bank, others held to the belief she might be implicated in some way.

The woman's mysterious actions and the fact that she remained away from her room through the night seemed to point to that end, they said.

But Lima police Tuesday were no nearer to the solution of the bandit car mystery than they were when the car was found Friday evening.

The mystery still baffles.

Meanwhile, the brains of Lima's detective force are being racked for some little piece of tangible evidence that might clear up the case.

HOME RULE FOR ALASKA URGED

Governor Sees Need of Self-Government, He Reports

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — An appeal for greater co-ordination in the policies of the federal government and for "the greatest possible need of self-government" runs thru a long series of recommendations for governing the territory of Alaska submitted in the annual report of Thomas Riggs, Jr., the territorial governor, made public Tuesday.

"Sentimentalists have done and are doing more damage to Alaska," Governor Riggs declares. "There can never be undue unless a broad policy of development is undertaken which recognizes the rights of invested capital and the welfare of the individual. Laws should govern instead of revocable regulations, but where there must be regulations, such regulations should be promulgated by authority located within the territory and not 4,000 miles away. In the interest of good citizenship, to promote self-reliance, and to strengthen the desire for public welfare, the greatest possible need of self-government should be allowed the residents of the territory."

The Alaska governor urges the definition of some sort of a colonial policy as applied to the territory, setting that absence of such a policy "has caused capital, supposedly headed for Alaska to turn to British Columbia to the gain of the Canadian province and to the loss of Alaska. This causes him to remark that "in Canada the founder of a great new industry lighted in Alaska, very often, indicated."

United States Destined to Lead World In Equal Rights to All. President Says In His Last Regular Message to Lawmakers

Revision of Tax Laws and Independence of the Philippines are Among His Recommendations—Executive Doesn't Address Solons In Person

WASHINGTON.—(By Associated Press).—President Wilson's concrete recommendations to congress in his annual message today were:

Revision of the tax laws with simplification of the income and profits taxes.

Independence for the Philippines.

A loan to Armenia.

Economy in government appropriations and expenditures and creation of a "workable budget system."

Cold storage and other laws affecting the cost of living and the federal licensing of corporations as recommended in previous messages.

Rehabilitation and training of disabled soldiers and sailors.

The president did not endorse a bonus.

Nowhere does the president refer to the league of nations or the peace treaty fight except perhaps by inference in his opening when he quoted Abraham Lincoln's "Let us have faith that right makes might and in that faith let us dare to do our duty as we understand it."

At its close the president wrote a paragraph which might be regarded as a valedictory, saying:

"I have not so much laid before you a series of recommendations as sought to utter a confession of faith, of the faith to stand by until my last fighting day. I believe this to be the faith of America, the faith of the future and of all the victories which await national action in the days to come whether in America or elsewhere."

DUTY OF UNITED STATES AS WORLD POWER POINTED OUT BY THE PRESIDENT

"Democracy," the president said, is being put upon its final test. "The world war," he said, "is just now suffering from a fatal rejection of the principle of democracy and a substitution of the principle of autocracy asserted in the name but without the authority and sanction of the multitude. This is the time of all others when democracy should prove its purity and its spiritual power there prevail. It is surely the manifest destiny of the United States to lead in the attempt to make this spirit prevail."

Two ways, "in which the United States can assist to accomplish this great object" were outlined by the president. They were:

CAN'T REFUSE ROLE WITHOUT PUTTING STIGMA ON FOUNDERS OF GOVERNMENT

"First: By offering the example within her own borders of the will and power of democracy to make and enforce laws which are unquestionably just and which are equaling their administration."

"Second: By standing for right and justice as towards individual nations."

"The United States," said the president, "cannot refuse this role of champion, without putting the stigma of rejection upon the great and devoted men who brought its government into existence."

The president's message was transmitted by messenger, the president adhering to his decision not to address congress in person.

The president's message was not read immediately in the senate, which waited until it had disposed of routine business.

President Wilson's annual message to congress follows:

When I addressed myself to performing the duty laid upon the president by the constitution to present to you an annual report on the

REPORTER SEIZED IN WOMAN HUNT

San Antonio Newspaper Man Quizzed in Hamon Case

PUT THRU GRILL, RELEASED

Sends Out Story About Clara Smith, Arrest Follows

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — (By Associated Press).—P. M. Ross, a local newspaper man, who Monday sent out dispatches from here, saying that he had conversed near San Antonio with Miss Clara Smith, sought in connection with the fatal shooting of Jake L. Hamon of Ardmore, Okla., was taken into custody by police early Tuesday, questioned for an hour and released.

Ross was detained at the request of Russell H. Brown, county attorney of Ardmore, who asked that his story be investigated and Ross be held as a material witness if necessary.

The newspaper man was quizzed closely as to his alleged statement that he had met the woman after her motor car had broken down near San Antonio, that he had repaired the break and that she had given him a statement. Ross claimed he had known Miss Smith for years.

HIS STORY DOUBTED

At the conclusion of the conference, Captain Duncan, of the police department, stated that he was inclined to doubt the newspaper man's story.

Chief of Police Muesy directed a telegram to Attorney Brown advising him of the interview with Ross and requesting information as to whether the Ardmore authorities wished further action in the case.

Ross, according to the police, refused to tell the whereabouts of the young woman, asserting that he would go to jail first.

Officials said that, when questioned by them, he declared he became acquainted with Miss Smith while working on a newspaper in Oklahoma. Later they said he denied knowing her.

OVERTAKES WOMAN

He told his questioners it was stated, that he first encountered Miss Smith on the streets of San Antonio, and that she tried to evade him by driving away in a large motor car. He said he pursued her in a smaller car, but being unable to overtake her, hired a large service car and resumed the chase, catching her just outside the city limits.

Following the questioning of Ross, police officials said they were inclined to abandon the search for Miss Smith here, especially after detectives had made an investigation at one of the leading hotels and failed to find any trace of her. A report from Oklahoma City had hinted that she could be found at the hotel.

It was emphasized at police headquarters that further investigation of the case locally would depend upon the wishes of the Ardmore authorities.

ORDERS MAN HELD

ARDMORE, Okla. — (By Associated Press).—The search for Clara Smith, wanted in connection with the fatal shooting here of Jake L. Hamon, Republican national committeeman, from Oklahoma, early Tuesday, was ordered at San Antonio, Texas, after Russell H. Brown, county attorney, had received information that Perry M. Ross, a San Antonio newspaper man, had stated he conversed with Miss Smith near San Antonio Monday night.

Acting upon the information, Mr. Brown sent a telegram to the chief of police at San Antonio, asking him to make an immediate investigation, and if necessary, hold Ross as a material witness in the case.

HAMON WIDOW RAILED

CHICAGO — (By Associated Press) — Four unidentified men forced an entrance Monday into an apartment building here where the widow of the late Jake L. Hamon lives. The men seized a quantity of personal papers and 75 letters received for Mrs. Hamon during her absence at Ardmore, Okla., where her husband was mysteriously shot to death. The intruders took nothing else.

Charles Willis, landlord of the building, had the letters and papers in his apartment, which is across the hall. Actions of the men indicated the seizure had been carefully planned, police said.

"HER OWN CAREER," NEW LIMA NEWS FEATURE

This is the first installment of the new girl feature by Phyllis Phillips which will appear daily in The Lima News. It is by the author of "The Diary of an Engaged Girl" which recently closed, being one of the biggest hits ever offered here in serial form. Every woman should read this story—the story of the struggles and temptations of a real girl.

From her bedroom window Gwendolyn sat staring into the garden below. It had been a hot and restless summer's day, and tired out with her various chores, as only daughter of the Chaunting household, she had finally fled from the sound of her mother's voice, from the whole world itself, to the cool security of her own room.

This room of Gwendolyn's, small and bare tho it was, was her only haven of refuge at all times. It was here only that she dared to dream her dreams, and, metaphorically speaking, close her eyes and ears to a world all out of tune with the songs of her own soul.

All day she had been working at hated tasks, such as butter-making, dusting, darning, and the hundred and one other things that domestic minds and mothers can always find for their daughters to do. Her head had ached thru the heat of noon, and the torrid midsummer day had tried her nerves to a straining point.

"Gwendolyn! Gwendolyn!" trilled a female voice thru the twilight hush irreverently. "Come down, Gwendolyn, and fix your father's supper."

The slender form of the girl at the window never moved, nor in any way indicated that she had heard the insistent voice below.

Her dark eyes were gazing far off into space, into some space that held other worlds, other mountains than these accustomed ones before her eyes into some glorious world, where wonder-humans accomplished wonder deeds every hour, even as Gwendolyn herself longed to do.

It was a singularly butterfly-like, houseworkless and happy world, this dream world of Gwendolyn's. And this was the golden hour of the day when she stole away from her unattractive surroundings to keep her tryst with her dream-friends in the land beyond the clouds.

Soothed, finally, by the peace and poetry of the New England twilight, she sank into a deep sleep, curled up as she was, with her head bowed on her over-tired, young arm. All out-doors stole in to caress her gently, for Gwendolyn was one with the great out-doors. She had been born and raised here in this house that now lived her so, had reached the age of twenty without so much as one romance, one kiss or glance of the eyes from some ardent swain, without interests even, and with nothing but a dilly round of chores and the companionship of her parents and one or two girl half thrown back, showing the full, rich curve of her girlish throat, her dark hair cast mysterious shadows on her face and form, and her red lips parted in a smile such as her mother could not possibly understand.

"What on earth can she find to smile at," was her first mental comment. "Land sakes, that girl never smiles round the house and she keeps coming up here and finding something funny to smile at when asleepin'."

"Here, Gwendolyn, Gwendolyn, wake up 'n stop betchin' your death of cold at this open window 'n the night air pourin' in. Get up! Get up! D'you hear?" She shook the girl by one thin shoulder — and with a start, and half a sob Gwendolyn came back to the world of realities.

"Oh, dear, and he was taking me right to the king, and it was a surprise see," she said dreamily, and staring up at her mother in wonderment. Then realizing that she was at home and in her own room she sighed and pulled herself up heavily from her seat on the floor, gave a slap to her hair, straightened her dress a bit, and with a dreary pain at her heart, followed her mother down to the eternal supper table.

BORROWING BABY NOT GROUND FOR DIVORCE, CLEVELAND COURT HOLDS

CLEVELAND — (By Associated Press) — Lise are not grounds for divorce, Judge Levine ruled here Tuesday in the divorce suit of Charles A. Lundquist. Lundquist said that his wife still tempted a reconciliation by representing as her own, an infant secured from another woman. Later, a baby was born to the Lundquists and the other baby was returned.

"The fact that a husband lies to his wife or a wife lies to her husband, is not cause for divorce," Judge Levine said, and he dismissed the case.

OHIO ELECTRIC IS TO REACH OUT

Plans to Invade Country Districts For Business

"PUSH-BUTTON FARMS," IDEA

Lima Company to Develop Wider Electrical Application

Push-button farms, the newest wrinkles in the electrical world.

Electric transmission lines from Lima into the country rural districts may soon become a reality, according to a statement Tuesday by officials of the Ohio Electric Railway Co., which furnishes the city with electric light and power.

Lines in many sections of the nation are carrying power from city power plants to the farms twice as fast as rural telephone lines developed a generation ago.

Ohio has two power plants transmitting current from the city into the farming district, according to J. B. Dugan, resident manager of the Ohio Electric here.

One is located at Dayton and the other in Greenwich. And Lima may be one of the next cities to fall in line with the ultra-modern idea, it was intimated Tuesday.

ELECTRICAL DEVELOPMENT
Use of electricity on the farm is being developed three or four times as rapidly as its use in city residences, it was declared.

The situation is summed up, Dugan says, in the following magazine excerpt which adorns a place on his desk:

"The farmers are bound to have electricity. It is the magic formula that can solve most of their problems today—do the work that the vanishing farm hand used to do, banish the drudgery that used to drive the sons and daughters away to the city, lighten the work of the women folks so they will be content with life on the farm, make it easy for the old folks to stay in the country and do away with the small town retired farmer idea."

"The farmers will have this electricity, regardless. They will pay whatever is right and just for it. The public utility companies need to awaken to what is coming, study the matter of how best to handle this, meet the farmer half way or more in satisfaction and, after securing facts to the cost of furnishing him with light and power, make proper charges."

"If this isn't done and done at once, these farm lines will spring up anyway, mushroomlike, over night, just as did the farm telephone lines. Only it will be worse. Already the house promoters are going up and down the land, getting farmers to organize, build cheap lines, enter into groups, farms of contract, all of which means trouble and added expense to the end.

OFFICIAL FONDLE IDEA
While there are no active moves under way to take such steps in Lima at the present time—the idea is being fondled by officials of the light company.

"We hope," said Resident Manager Dugan, "after we have taken care of Lima's immediate needs to go ahead with the rural service idea and broaden out into the outlying districts."

Lima now leads the union in carrying out the electrical farm proposition. There have been transmission lines, one hundred of them, may be found in 20 counties with 4,000 farmers using electricity, it was stated.

TRIAL OF PRIVATE DETECTIVE POSTPONED

Trial of Lewis Morphis, private detective, Toledo, set for Tuesday has been postponed until December 17. Morphis was indicted by the October grand jury, on the charge of impeding a witness.

Statutory charges against Tom Conpus, Baltimore, and Ohio section hand, in connection with the case Morphis was indicted, have been set for trial December 21. According to Prosecuting Attorney John L. Cable, Morphis paid off a witness against Conpus, who afterward had a change of heart and laid the case before the prosecutor.

A small boy is said to have been the one against whom the offense was committed. A jury which tried the case previously disagreed and it was set for re-trial.

TRUCE FLAG SENT BY SINN FEIN

Peace Proposals Taken to the British Government

AGENT DIRECT FROM IRELAND

War Atmosphere is Clearer Than in Months

LONDON — (By United Press) — Arthur Henderson, bearer of a truce flag, was in present Sinn Fein peace proposals to the British government Tuesday.

Henderson, British labor leader, came direct from Ireland, where he talked with Sinn Fein leaders. Other important intermediaries hastened back and forth with peace messages. No flat declaration that a truce impends was made by officials on either side, but the atmosphere was clearer than in months.

At the same time there were indications that fighting will continue to the hour of armistice if it comes. The government continued to raid and arrest. Sinn Fein terrorists continued their campaign of ambush.

Monday night a lorry load of police hearing Brandon was surprised in the darkness by attackers hidden in the bushes. The police hastily took cover, apparently without injuries to any of them. They were rescued shortly afterward by soldiers attracted by the gun fire.

The government pursued its policy of tracking down Sinn Fein leaders by surprising the Dublin Corporation in the city hall and arresting six members. One of these was a member of parliament elected by the Sinn Fein.

COUNCIL BALKS CITY BOULEVARD LIGHTING EXTENSION PLANS

Lima is planning to extend its system of boulevard lights at an approximate cost of $200,000.

The new plans call for a system of lights identical with those now being installed in Main-st. and High-st. The legislation will provide for the lights in all downtown districts and residential blocks within proximity of the business district.

SOVIET ENVOY'S CASE OPENS

Deportation Proceedings Against L. C. A. K. Martens Taken Up

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — Argument in the deportation proceedings against Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, self-styled Soviet ambassador to the United States, opened Tuesday before Secretary of Labor Wilson.

The argument is the final step in the proceedings against Martens which have continued for nearly a year alternating at the department of labor here, before Assistant Secretary Post, and at Ellis Island before Inspector Shell.

Counsel of Martens submitted a brief in the case some time ago, and in addition to oral argument, J. E. Hoover, representing the department of justice, filed a brief in behalf of the government.

The government brief contended that Martens is an alien, is in the United States in violation of law and accordingly should be deported. It declares that Martens is a member of the Russian communist party and the so-called Socialist Federal Soviet republic which advocates the overthrow of the government of the United States by force and violence.

"LOST MINE" OF GOLD LOCATED

Long Abandoned Claim in California Discovered

REDDING, Cal. — Has the famous "Lost Mine" been found? George Rice, Del Taylor, George West and George Byner, Shasta County miners, declare they have found it and pioneer miners are inclined to give credence to their story. The four miners who declare they discovered the long-lost mine last June and have been working it have come out of the mountain fastness of the Squaw Creek district for the winter. They declare they located the mine twenty-two miles up Squaw Creek from Copper City. The well-established story is that in 1853 some miners found a rich claim far up Squaw Creek. All but one of them was massacred by the Indians. The survivor came down to Copper City and told the story of the riches that were abandoned, but he was soon afterward drowned in Pitt River. For years and years efforts have been made by prospectors to find the lost mine. It remained for the four miners to find the claim last June. It is in an almost inaccessible region and it was only accidentally that they stumbled on it. They found a shaft fourteen feet old, rusty tools indicating that the claim had been abandoned in haste. Cleaning out the shaft they found a ledge of rich ore which proved to be gold quartz. There is lots of it, say the quartet, and it is rich, too. The four are confident they have found the famed "Lost Mine."

STREET CLEANERS IN MEXICO CITY RAISE AWFUL DUST

MEXICO CITY, Mexico.—Street cleaning in Mexico City has not improved since the days of the Aztecs. The street cleaner has a long pole, at the end of which is fastened a bundle of twigs. With this he makes a fearful dust, but accomplishes only moderate results in the matter of cleaning. When a piece of rubbish is large, his broom moves it, but the dust merely takes wing for a moment, choking passersby in the street, and then settles down to its old place. The men who wield the brooms look like descendants of the very men who had the job four hundred years ago, when the Spanish conquerors came, and for a hundred years before that.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights. Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cured with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face. Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c. —Adv.

Why so many people prefer Pebeco

People decide to try Pebeco Tooth Paste for a variety of reasons, but there is one reason in particular why so many who do try Pebeco prefer it.

When you see some acquaintance who uses Pebeco, one whose mouth, filled with white, sound teeth, suggests a red fruit cut in twain and filled with pearls, you want your teeth to look like hers or his.

Other people read and believe that Pebeco Tooth Paste helps to protect the teeth against decay resulting from "Acid-Mouth." Pebeco does all of that, but even more for the sake of the definite, clean-mouth sensation it gives, people prize Pebeco.

The years will prove and have proved that Pebeco preserves the teeth; but you can have that clean-mouth sensation tonight.

Rheumatism Left Him as if By Magic

Had Suffered Over 50 Years! Now 83 Years, Yet a Big Surprise to Friends

Regains Strength Goes out Fishing, Back to Business, Laughs at "URIC ACID" How the "Inner Mystery" Reveals Baffling Facts Overlooked By Doctors and Scientists For Centuries

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army over fifty years ago," writes J. B. Ashelman. "Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures' and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now, as if by magic, I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change."

HOW IT HAPPENED

Mr. Ashelman is only one of thousands who suffered for years, owing to the general belief in the old, false, theory that "Uric Acid" causes rheumatism. This erroneous belief induced him and legions of unfortunate men and women to take wrong treatments. You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as to try and get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints, by taking treatments supposed to drive Uric Acid out of your blood and body. Many physicians and scientists now know that Uric Acid never did, never can and never will cause rheumatism; that it is a natural and necessary constituent of the blood; that it is found in every new-born babe; and that without it we could not live!

These statements may seem strange to some folks, who have all along been led to believe in the old "Uric Acid" humbug. It took Mr. Ashelman fifty years to find out this truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mystery," a remarkable book now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this particular trouble.

NOTE: If any reader of the News-Times-Democrat wishes the book that reveals these facts regarding the true cause of rheumatism, facts that were overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a post card or letter to J. B. Clearwater, No. 208 Street, Hallowell, Maine, and it will be sent by return mail without any charge whatever. Cut out this notice lest you forget! If not a sufferer yourself hand this good news to some afflicted friend. —Adv.

Police Believe Fullerton Victim of Whiskey Grafters

MANY VICTIMS OF SCHEME

Patrolmen Keep Guns Greased for Stickup Gentry

After an extended visit into the story of William Fullerton, restaurant proprietor at 811 S. Main-st, who said he was held up by three men Saturday afternoon and robbed of $150, police have gathered evidence that leads them to scout the story, they say.

Chief O. J. Roush said Tuesday that it is his belief after investigating the case, that Fullerton gave $150 to a man who promised to buy him a quantity of liquor.

The man failed to appear with the whiskey and Fullerton made up the daring daylight robbery story which he reported to police. In the opinion of Chief Roush, that official said Tuesday.

FULLERTON MAKES DENIAL. Fullerton was summoned to police headquarters Tuesday morning and Chief Roush charged the restaurant owner point blank with inventing a robbery story.

He denied he was the victim of a whiskey grafter, according to Chief Roush.

Police are continuing their investi-

ation and in the course of their probe so far have secured information that leads them to the belief that many such grafts have been pulled off here recently, and the victims shunned the police, fearing exposure.

Startling revelations may be forthcoming soon as the probe is taking a serious turn into a number of cases where well known men have fallen victims to the whiskey scheme which has occupied such a prominent place in the annals of other police departments. It is said.

CRIME STRIKES LIMA. The crime wave now sweeping over Ohio cities, has reached Lima and the crooks implicated in the Fullerton affair are believed to be professionals in their line.

At each roll call of the various platoons of police men, they are warned to be on the lookout for suspicious characters and arrest every individual who appears to be following a crooked vocation.

Monday night passed quietly with no reports of sensational crimes.

Guns of policemen have been greased and all are standing ready at all times for such crooks as are believed to be infesting Lima after being driven out of larger cities by concerted action on the part of police authorities.

The Falacy of Price Reductions by the

J. C. PENNEY Selling Methods

Let's get into history a bit. Three years ago when prices were constantly going higher, merchants did not inform you about it, but the fact very quickly impressed itself upon the public mind. Higher prices were a necessity of the time, and merchants and customers alike were obliged to content themselves with conditions.

Now that high prices have passed the peak, merchants thruout the country are clamorously seeking to impress upon an unsuspecting public the fact that they are returning prices to where they normally belong, and endeavor to prove the fact by Mark-Down Sales of the most flagrant character.

The J. C. Penney Company is like a ship without a sail, but with an installation of powerful turbines. It steams right past the sale type with perpetual sale prices as the usual thing. Maintaining a promise of economy whenever you want to buy. No necessity to hurry for your present or future needs, but at the lowest prices when you really want them.

Our great Nation-wide Institution has a buying power that is quite beyond the average mind to understand. Buying a single line of suits for 297 stores is enormous. It provides a leverage for lower buying that is impossible for any group of stores to equal.

Today's condition finds our stores low in merchandise (as they should be,) and our New York Offices gleaming the markets with great contracts at prices that are way, way below what you have been accustomed to pay. The newly-bought lines are already making their appearance in our Stores. Much of our quota of recent purchases is here right now.

If you are among those who have been pulled down town in the morning hours to save money on much-needed merchandise, we suggest that you make a careful comparison of "Sale Prices" and our Normal Prices. You will most assuredly find us lower. At the same time, you may buy leisurely and choose with a certainty of permanent satisfaction.

We leave this problem in your hands. We know your judgment is good. We merely suggest that you take the time to gain an accurate knowledge where you may buy with the greatest economy. We have come to Lima to grow, and our method of growing is up the steady old ladder of persistency, stopping at every rung to render a logical service of definite economy.

DEMOCRACY IS ON FINAL TEST

State of the Union, I found my thought dominated by an immortal sentence of Abraham Lincoln: "Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us dare to do our duty as we understand it."—A sentence immortal because it embodies in a form of utter simplicity and purity the essential faith of the nation, the faith in which it was conceived and the faith and the birth of a nation founded upon it came the hope into the world that a new order would prevail through the affairs of mankind, an order in which reason and right would take precedence of covetousness and force, and I believe that I express the wish and purpose of every thoughtful American when I say that this sentence marks for us in the present crisis the part we should play. It is the advantage of our democratic faith and its exercise of influence upon the affairs of the world. By this faith and by this faith alone can the world be lifted out of its present confusion and despair. It was this faith which prevailed over the wicked force in Germany. You will remember that the beginning of the end of the war came when the German people found themselves face to face with the conscience of the world and realized that right was everywhere arrayed against the wrong that their government was attempting to perpetrate. I think, therefore, that it is true to say that this was the faith which won the war. Certainly this is the faith with which our gallant men went into the field and out upon the seas to make sure of victory.

DEMOCRACY'S MISSION
This is the mission upon which democracy came into the world. Democracy is an assertion of the right of the individual to live and to be treated justly as against any attempt on the part of any combination of individuals to make laws which will overburden him or which will destroy his equality among his fellows. I think we all realize that the day has come when democracy is being put to its final test. The old world was just now suffering from a wasteful rejection of the principle of democracy and a substitution of the people of autocracy as asserted in the name but without the authority and sanction of the multitude. This is the time of all others when democracy must prove its purity and spiritual power to prevail. It is surely the manifest destiny of the United States to lead in the attempt to make this spirit prevail.

PROTECTION OF THE WEAK
There are two ways in which the United States can assist to accomplish this great object. First, by offering the example within her own border well and power of democracy to make and enforce laws which are unquestionably just and which are equal in their administration—laws which secure its full right to labor and yet at the same time safeguard the integrity of property and particularly of that property which is dependent upon the development of industry and the increase of the national wealth of the world. Second, by standing for right and justice as toward individual nations. The law of democracy is for the protection of the weak and the influence of every democracy in the world should be for the protection of the weak nations, the nation which is struggling against the right and toward its proper recognition and privilege of the family of nations. The United States cannot refuse this role of champion without putting the stigma of rejection upon the great and devoted men who brought its government into existence and established it in the face of almost universal opposition and intrigue, even in the face of wanton force, as for example, against the orders of the council of Great Britain and the arbitrary Napoleonic decrees which involved us in what we know was the war of 1812.

WOULD REMEDY INJUSTICE
I urge you to consider that the display of an immediate disposition on the part of congress to remedy any injustice or evils that may have shown themselves in our own national life will afford the most effective offset to the forces of chaos and tyranny which are playing so disastrous a part in the fortunes of the free peoples of more than one part of the world.

TRIUMPH DEPENDS ON U. S.
The United States is of necessity the sample democracy of the world, and the triumph of democracy depends upon its success.

Recovery from the disturbing and sometimes disastrous effects of the late war has been exceedingly slow on the other side of the water and has given promise, I venture to say, of early completion only in our fortunate country; but even with us the recovery has been so slow and so incomplete and there are immediate serviceable acts of legislation which it seems to me we ought to attempt, to assist that recovery and prove the indestructible recuperative force of a great government of the people. One of these is to prove that a great democracy can keep house as successfully and in as businesslike a fashion as any other government. It seems to me that the first step towards proving this is to supply ourselves with a systematic method of handling our estimates and expenditures and bringing them to the point where they will be an unnecessary strain upon our income or necessitate unreasonable taxation, in other words, a workable budget system, and I respectfully suggest that two elements are essential to such a system; namely, not only that the proposal of appropriations should be in the hands of a single body, such as a single preparatory committee in each house of congress, but also that this body should be brought into such co-operation with the departments of the government and with the treasury of the United States as would enable it to act upon a complete conspectus of the needs of the government and the resources from which it must draw its income. I reluctantly vetoed the budget bill passed by the last session of the congress because of a constitutional objection. The house of representatives subsequently modified the bill in order to meet this objection. In the revised form I believe that the bill, coupled with action already taken by the congress to strike its rules and procedures, furnishes the foundation for an efficient national budget system. I am a firm believer, therefore, that one of the steps taken by the present congress will be to pass the budget bill.

NATION'S FINANCES

LIMA'S RANK IN WELFARE WORKER DISEASE FIGHT ASSIGNED HERE

Sixth Among Cities of Ohio in War on Venereal Disease

Lima ranks sixth in Ohio in the number and efficiency of measures adopted to control venereal diseases, according to a report made public Tuesday by the American Social Hygiene association.

Dayton, with a score of 572, leads the state. Portsmouth with 527 is second, and Cincinnati with 523 is third. Cleveland made 476 points, Lima 432, Akron 400, Alliance 396, Youngstown 369, Chillicothe 357, Columbus and Hamilton 344 and Springfield 331.

Cities making over 200 points were Canton, Lorain and Middletown.

The ratings are disclosed in a recent survey in 44 of the largest cities in the United States. The scores are based upon a possible 1000 points.

Authorities issuing the report call attention to the fact that the grades by no means indicate the amount of venereal disease existing in the various cities.

Some cities, it was pointed out, may be graded high because they have had so much venereal disease and prostitution that it has been necessary to inaugurate vigorous measures for combating them, while other small cities may be graded low because it has seemed unnecessary to them to establish clinics and adopt other measures for which the high grades were awarded.

BOULEVARD LIGHTS TO SHINE FIRST TIME WEDNESDAY

Lima's new boulevard lighting system will flare forth to the public for the first time Wednesday night, Service Director McClain told council Monday night.

With the inauguration of the new system in Main and High-sts., council voted to have the Ohio Electric discontinue the use of arc lights in those sections.

The lights removed from that district will be used in other sections of the city where the arc light service is poor because of inability to get new lamps, it was stated.

COUNCILMEN DEAL WITH THEORIES; HOUSEWIVES OF CITY ARE SUFFERERS

While Lima housewives are having their troubles without gas, city councilmen at their meeting Monday night continued to deal with theories and provided no relief in the present shortage.

A recommendation that overtures be made to some outside artificial gas concern to come here was passed, it being submitted by Councilman Daniels, anti-gas company soon appointed by other opponents of this utility.

Christmas Bells to Ring Merrily for 3,000 Christmas Savers

Old National Bank, is Mailing over $75,000 in Xmas Checks

Santa Claus will be welcomed by the kiddies in thousands of Lima homes after the 3,000 members of the Old National Bank's Christmas Club finish their shopping.

Christmas buying starts with a dash tomorrow when the thrifty Club members receive their checks.

As usual the first thing many people will use their money for will be to start regular savings accounts in the Bank. Having once gotten ahead, they intend to keep ahead and have a permanent savings account.

Next will come the purchase of substantial Christmas gifts. The retail stores will be crowded when the Club members start shopping.

Not a few members will make payments on their homes with their Christmas checks, or else pay their taxes, interest and insurance.

The officers of the Old National say that some of the Club members have used the Club for many years, and each year hundreds of new people have joined when they saw how successful their friends were.

It is expected that the new Club which opens Monday, December 13th, will be much larger than the 1920 Club.

The 1921 Christmas Club will be held open for new members until Saturday January 8th. adv.

DANGER FOR AMERICA

THAT there is danger ahead for the United States, if the influx of immigrants from European countries is permitted to go on in the future as it has been in the past, cannot be denied.

According to reports submitted by seventeen transatlantic steamship company representatives to Frederick A. Wallis, commissioner of immigration at Ellis Island, 15,000,000 men, women and children of all social and economic classifications representing every nationality in Europe, are fighting for passage to the United States.

Every seaport city and town along the western and southern coasts of Europe, it is asserted, is crowded with persons who, in their eagerness to leave for this country, have sold their homes and everything they possessed. Passport offices abroad are reported to be besieged with applicants.

The opinion is expressed that 5,000,000 Germans and Austrians are packed up and ready to sail as soon as the United States makes peace with their governments. Commissioner Wallis, in Washington for a conference with members of the house and senate immigration committees, stated that all records for immigration have been broken recently.

Congressman B. F. Welty of the 4th Ohio district is the author of a bill that is intended to restrict immigration to a flow that does not exceed our ability to properly place and assimilate the newcomers.

FILIPINO INDEPENDENCE

POLITICAL activity and post-war economic disturbances have brought about a renewal of sentiment in the Philippine islands for independence, according to Governor General Burton Harrison's annual report.

The governor's recommendation that independence be granted is renewed, with the declaration that "the stable government stated as a prerequisite has already been established in the Philippines."

Harrison continues in his report: "The public statements of allied and associated leaders during the war about the rights and liberties of small nationalities and the enunciation of the doctrine of self-determination have been widely disseminated in the Philippines and confidence in the prompt formation of the league of nations seemed to offer future security for Philippine independence."

The first general elections in the islands in July, 1919, demonstrated the ability of the Filipinos to effect a political government, although irregularities and defects in the election laws were apparent. Harrison's report recommends equal suffrage for the islands.

There no longer remains doubt about the ability of the Filipinos to govern themselves. Long continued tranquility in the islands makes American occupancy appear really unnecessary. The people of the Philippine islands appreciate the fact that Uncle Sam is a beneficent guardian and they are content to wait for the time when their affairs will be turned over to them altogether.

However, they are not to be blamed for smarting a little under the delay. The Philippine mission in this country is rapidly promoting sentiment for independence.

MISS LIMA: "America will never give up California to the Japs—not until some other state learns to grow raisins."

OHIO FIRST IN AUTOS

OUR state is great for stepping out in front in all lines of progress. This state is pre-eminent for many things, not the least of which lies in being the home of a considerable number of Presidents chosen to rule over the United States.

Greatness for Ohio has developed along a new line. Prior to 1920 the state of New York boasted of a greater number of automobiles than any other commonwealth in the Union. But, according to the record of automobile licenses issued in 1920, just made public by Alexander G. Snow, state registrar of automobiles, the Buckeye state has outstripped New York, taking first place in the list of states in the matter of number of autos.

New York has been forced into second place by Ohio progressiveness, the first time in her history, while Illinois and Pennsylvania are running a close race for third place. California will rank among the first six states.

Ohio's near proximity to the center of automobile manufacture in the United States may have had something to do with it, but for the most part the impetus was afforded by business being spurred on and speeded up along all lines.

SWAT THE FLY—NOW!

SOUNDS odd, doesn't it, to hear the injunction "swat the fly" at this time of the year, but there is good reason for the suggestion; a reason that is readily apparent when it is stated on authority that one pair of flies effectively swatted now will avert the possible plague of 324,000,000,000 potential descendants next fall.

Posters circulated in New York City, where a winter campaign against flies was launched by the Merchants' Association, make this claim. Placards have been distributed about the city, urging a concerted drive on the pests between now and Christmas.

The New York campaign might with profit be extended to include every community in the United States. Take a look about the interior of your home or your office and you'll be surprised to notice that you are still harboring flies.

Swat the fly—now!

SURE, THERE'S A SANTA CLAUS!

SOMEBODY is trying to tell the kiddies there is no Santa Claus. He's wrong, wilfully or ignorantly. There is a Santa Claus and he's going to visit Lima homes, just as he always has done, at Christmas time.

Lots of folks are going to help Santa Claus this year in collecting toys, wearing apparel and goodies and dainties for the little folks. Jolly old Kris Kingle comes every year and 1920 is not going to be an exception.

Just forget it if anyone tries to tell you there isn't a Santa Claus.

A WOOL EMBARGO

THERE has been started a movement for an embargo on wool, as a means of relieving the acute financial condition existing among the farmers of the country.

Sponsors of the movement believe that an immediate and effective embargo will re-establish a market for more than 10,000,000 pounds of virgin wool stored in the Columbus warehouse of the Ohio Wool Growers' association, without a market, representing hundreds of thousands of dollars, of which Ohio farmers are in dire need.

HEALTH HINTS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

AS THE DEVIL QUOTES SCRIPTURE

TURE

"The reason why I wrote you about hardening of the arteries and heart disease," writes a reader, "was that I had just discovered my doctor had been giving me digitalis for a considerable time. Your valuable monograph on the subject confirms my opinion. You say, 'It is almost a rule of thumb that digitalis is a heart disease.' I should not have taken it had I known what it was. Is it too late to change?" (D. W. W.)

This reader writes a letter which shows he is not without good education. And yet the reader has jumped to a conclusion scarcely warranted by what I said of digitalis and arteriosclerosis and heart disease. The reader quotes correctly, but makes a devilish job of it, like the Old Boy quoting Scripture.

In the monograph which our reader quotes I said this: "There is a popular notion that certain remedies, medicinal or non-medicinal, are 'good for' weak heart, hardened arteries, high blood pressure, paralysis, kidney trouble or neuritis, and other manifestations of cardiovascular disease. Certain remedies, medicinal and otherwise, are good for the patient; but we can assure you that no known remedy of any character whatever is good for all cases of arterial heart, kidney or brain trouble, due to cardiovascular disease. The remedy must be adapted to the individual requirements in every instance, and cannot be applied by rule of thumb. For instance, it is absurd to think of digitalis as being helpful for heart disease, or to think of massage being good for arterial hardening, or think of buttermilk or Bulgarian bacillus cultures as being good for autointoxication. These remedies will do good in Brown's case; and perhaps do serious harm in the case of Jones."

Now have I condemned digitalis or any other digitalis for heart disease, or have I merely appealed to sound sense and suggested that digitalis or other remedy should be intelligently employed if employed at all? Digitalis is a valuable sheet anchor in the treatment of many cases of heart disease, but like many other remedies powerful for good, digitalis is also capable of doing serious harm when unskillfully used, and by unskillful use, of course, I mean when it is prescribed for a patient who has a fool for a doctor, or as we say in France, a patient who attempts to doctor himself.

Large doses of one of the physiologically tested (that is, proved active) preparations of digitalis often work wonders, but only a physician can judge how much, how often, or how long digitalis should be given. When the drug is to be continued any length of time, certainly its effects must be observed at regular intervals and the dosage determined accordingly, if the physician knows his business and mixes brains with his medicines. Digitalis is a valuable drug, but I repeat that it is capable of doing serious harm, alike most persons who nibble at it are getting no effect whatsoever, save in imagination.

Important to all Women: Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

JUST A GIRL

BY JANE PHILLIPS

KENNETH LAWRENCE

I did not tell either Mother or Mary of Mr. Claxton's proposal. I knew they would both favor him, and there was—nothing. A girl had to take the train upon which he would arrive, and that he would be with us as soon as possible. Mother looked at me sharply when the message came.

"He seems to be sure of his welcome," she remarked rather dryly. "To her he was one of the least known, and the least desirable of all the young men who used to call at our home. Then she also knew that I had been nothing from him in the intervening years, and so rather wondered at his sudden friendliness—as she called it. In my heart I called it something else—love!"

My respect for what I considered Kenneth Lawrence's peculiar capabilities had grown by the thoughts it fed upon. I had made him head and shoulders above the other young men who idled away their time, while he was running a big ranch. He had taken him as seriously as I had been obliged to take myself. Naturally I also took his visit to have a serious import.

It was on Saturday night he had wired he would reach Chicago. I was delighted because I would have all day Sunday with him—and there would be much to talk about, much to explain. He knew nothing at all of us, save that we had lost Dad. Probably he had learned that we had lost our money, but I knew he would not imagine for a moment that we had lost it all, or that I had been obliged to go to work.

Mother and I were sitting in our little living room when the telephone rang. She had been reading, I trying to.

"Hello—is this Miss Stewart?"

"Yes—"

"This is Kenneth Lawrence. I am telephoning from the hotel. I will be with you as soon as I freshen up a little. Say half an hour."

My voice trembled as I said I would be very glad to see him.

"I judge it is Mr. Lawrence," Mother remarked, looking up from her book.

"Yes, he will be here in half an hour."

"I ordered some things so you could give him a little supper if you wish," her hospitable nature interjected at once by a guest.

"Thank you, Mother. He may have had an early dinner on the train, and be glad of something."

I was so excited I could scarcely keep still. But the same feeling!

YOUR NAME

BY PHILIP FRANCHES

VARIATION—JAMES

RACIAL ORIGIN—ENGLISH

SOURCE—An Compendium

The family name of Armour, the perhaps not so widespread as some others, is, nevertheless, most widely known. It has no connection, as might be supposed upon casual speculation, with the modern French word "amour," meaning "love." It is a name of more sturdy extraction.

Somewhere among the medieval progenitors of the families which today bear this name were those who either followed the profession of making armor for the chivalry of their day or who bore the title of "Armourer." For there was a difference. Sometimes the word meant the maker of armor; sometimes it represented an office of importance, as the courts of royalty and governing nobility of Anglo-Norman days were organized.

The family name of Armour and Armer do not fall in the rather small class of family names which can be traced back to an origin with a single family. Undoubtedly the name sprang into being as a hereditary surname in many places and at different periods in the era of family name formation. Just why the occupation of a certain individual in a family line should have been the one to develop the hereditary name for his posterity, and not the occupation of his son, or his father, is a matter which only an intimate knowledge of the specific family history can reveal.

The father of an armourer might have been an armorer, and his son a weaver, yet it would be the armourer's occupation, which would crystallize into a family name born by the weaver-son and all posterity. It depended upon local conditions and customs at the time in which some men bore hereditary names and others had not yet acquired them.

AS YOU LIKE IT

There's still hope. The crooks who land in Lima can't stand the meals they get these gasless days very long.

It's all settled, girls! You can climb thru the snow drifts with bare knees and otherwise undress without any danger to your health as long as you're comfortable. That is what The News' family doctor says and he ought to know.

"The petty questions of this ilk, that we are prone to utter; why is it coconuts give milk, since peanuts give us butter?"

Severe: Ohio banks are ordering guns for protection against thugs. We suggest that they get several one-pounders and some ex-Yanks to operate them and bank robberies will be few and far between.

Congress has just about finished its first year of talking. Perhaps a new year will be turned over January 1.

Lima police still mark 'em up as plain drunks. There isn't anything plain or ordinary about a fellow who can get that way now with liquor at a dollar a small.

"In a few years liquor will be forgotten," says a prohibition commissioner. Hardly. If we were writing an epitaph for booze it would be, "Gone but not forgotten."

WHY THE POOR FINE

TOO MANY BREAKDOWNS

The breakdown of the shipping board has surely embroiled our country's name. Now dry enforcement's breaking down—The chief got blue and quit the game.

We used to dance a breakdown dance

When hearts were light and men could clown, But in these shlimmy days—no chance, The breakdown dance has broken down.

The reason why we've broken down in so many of our governmental activities is because we have cut away from the stern teachings of our fathers and have begun to believe that we could get something for nothing. World democracy, government operation and similar theories we took aboard our wagon. Every one of them gave us a puncture and now we're running on our rims. We've got to pay the bills after all.

One time on Half Moon Mountain, Carl Lasher and his young wife were riding home in the dilapidated old buggy that Carl has inherited from his grandfather. As they rattled over the rough road, they overtook an old miser that the boys called "Sompnifer-Nothin'," because he never spent any money, but always wanted people to give him a share of their shinnings. Carl stopped and asked the old man to get on and ride.

"Four buggy don't look very strong," said the old man, "are you sure it'll carry me?"

"Never broke down yet," laughed Carl, "and it's been traveling these roads for nigh onto a hundred years. Climb on."

The old man stepped into the bed of the buggy and when Carl started the horse, the buggy collapsed. The old man stepped out again, looked at Carl and his wife sitting in the road and continued on his journey. Carl's soles were paralyzed for a few minutes and so was his wife's and they sat there till the old man was out of sight.

"Four buggy don't look very strong," said the old man, "are you sure it'll carry me?"

And that's the shape this country is in. When we look aboard old man Something-for-Nothing, it was a load no nation could carry. And the good old wagon done broke down.

BLACK HAND PLOT MAY SOON CLEAR

Trio of Italians Held on Grand Larceny Charge

WON'T ADMIT OR DENY GUILT

Police Believe They Have Men
Who Threatened Naum

Within the next few hours it is expected by Chief of Police Roush that sufficient evidence will be available to place the blame of the black hand plot which threatened the life of Klement Naum, grocer, 1219 S. Main-st., on three Italians who are now being held at police headquarters.

ARE TOLEDO MEN

According to police, it is known that the trio were in the vicinity of Naum's home Sunday night when windows in his house and adjoining grocery were shattered by bullets from several guns.

The men, who were arrested in Toledo, registered at police headquarters as James Fedele, 25; Andrew De Francisco, 28, and Carl Basialdo, 28. They each gave Toledo as their home.

Sergeant Frank Eberle and Officer Landfair went to Toledo after the three Monday night and returned them to the Lima city prison.

An investigation disclosed that four bolts of cloth found on them at the time of their arrest are those which are believed by police to have been taken from a L. E. & W. freight car last week.

TOLEDO POLICE BALK

Toledo police refused to turn over three bolts of cloth, declaring they had been identified by a Toledo merchant. Police here scout the story. The remaining bolt was turned over to Sergeant Eberle and is being held as evidence in a grand larceny charge which has been placed against the Italians.

The trio refused to talk when police questioned them regarding the alleged black hand plot.

They would neither confess nor deny their guilt.

The men were arraigned Tuesday morning before Judge Jackson, entered pleas of not guilty and were held in $1,000 bond each. Trial was set for Friday.

NO PARK COMMISSION; CITY PLANNING DELAYED

Because Lima has no park commission, plans of the city council to take steps for the introduction of a city planning commission here, are being held in abeyance.

An ordinance authorizing the embryo stage of the city plan idea for Lima went to its second reading in council Monday night.

City Solicitor E. E. Garling told council members a city planning commission must have as one of its members the chairman of the city park commission. Lima has no park commission.

JOINT COMMITTEE TO SEEK LEGISLATIVE AID FOR BOND ISSUE

With prospects of a shortage of between $150,000 and $180,000 in the city's purse for 1921, council Monday night voted to appeal to the state legislature for aid in solving Lima's financial problems.

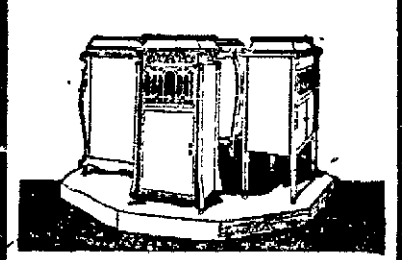

For some time it has been the desire of officials to effect a bond issue covering the deficiencies without taking the matter to a vote of the people.

Mayor Burkhardt, City Solicitor Garling, City Auditor Rupert and the council finance committee compose a joint committee to ask the state approval of the deficiency bond issue for Lima.

by MARGARET SIMPSON

The second joint meeting of the Lotus, Arbutus and Woman's clubs was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Black, W. Market-st., Prof. H. L. Lutz, Oberlin College, spoke in Political Economy. Professor Lutz received his degree at Harvard and his thesis on Political Economy was the finest ever presented at the University.

He gave the definition of Economy as "The science of means of activities in getting things." In his explanation good clothes and shelter are scarce, hence they are of economic good. To be worked for. He said "You this fact a whole system of morality may be built. Any line of action hindering natural resources at production is a moral. Personal dissipation is immoral because it wastes. Food today is the most important economic question of today. The alarming increase in population will make production more important than ever because it will steadily increase without more production."

Professor Lutz made a statement that he advocated an intelligent restriction of immigration. He stated that "the retail merchant in many places, Cleveland especially, have cut all dry goods one half. That is an anticipation of a great drop in prices after the first of the year. No one can say whether there will be a panic or not. We must have readjustment at once."

Following this inspiring talk Mrs. E. B. Taylor presented the Library drive. She told of one hundred and forty new books which had just arrived at the Public Library. This makes a total of more than 500 new books furnished for the Library by the City Federation.

The hostesses including Mrs. Black, Mrs. Frank M. Bell, Mrs. Ralph Austin, and Mrs. J. E. Grosjean served a delicious tea at 5 o'clock.

The Palace of Darkened Windows

In silence he shook his head and was astounded at the look of sudden proud anger she darted at him.

"You're a mighty real friend to take such an interest in my luck," he said quickly, with warm liking in his voice, "and I only wish you could play fairy god-mother and give me my wish—but you can't, Lady Claire, and apparently she won't, and that's the end of the matter. I have to take off my hat to the Better Man."

Lady Claire did not gasp or stammer or question. She did none of the dimly enlightening things into which a lesser pulse might have tottered. After an inconsiderable moment of silence she merely uttered in a voice in which so many things were blended that their elements could hardly be perceived.

"She added hurriedly, 'I'm sorry I've seemed to—to intrude into your affairs.'"

"My affairs are on my sleeve," answered Billy and wondered at the quick look she gave him.

"Oh, no—not at all," she answered a little breathlessly. "I'm sure they haven't seemed so to me—but then I'm stupid." She stopped for a moment of hot wonder at that stupidity. She had not believed Miss Falconer—had thought her prejudiced maneuvering. Like lightning she reviewed the baffling interchange of sentences, then glanced up at Billy's silent absorption. She felt queerly grateful for his innocent density. "And perhaps she's stupid, too," she told him. "You'd better make sure. You'd better make absolutely sure."

He looked down on her with sorry humor in his face. "Do I need to make sure?" He nodded in the direction of the giant gateway.

"They're had time to settle the divisions of the Balkans up there."

"Oh, yes, they've had time!" She seemed speaking at sudden laughing random. "But we've had the same time and you see we haven't settled anything with it—not even that you're to stay. Yes, you'd better make sure, Mr. Hill."

Billy was hardly heeding. A laugh had caught his ears, a light silver bell thru the darkness. In the shadows behind him he made out a man and a woman arm in arm.

"Just a moment," he begged of Lady Claire. "May I leave you here a moment? I must see those—I think I know—" Without listening to her automatic permission he was gone.

The next moment he had laid his hand on the arm of the man with the woman. Both spun quickly about. A babble of explanation broke out.

"Ach, mein freund, mein freund!"

"Oh, it is Billy!"

"How did you find me here?"

"Our American Billy!"

The last voice, pleasantly foreign, was the voice of Fritz Baroff. And the first voice gutturally foreign was the voice of Frederick von Deigen. Arm in arm, flushed, happy, content, the two began talking in breath, thanking Billy for the letter he had sent von Deigen which had brought them together, and apologizing for their hasty flight—a honeymoon upon the Nile, the German joyfully explained.

Discreetly Billy forbore to make any discoveries as to the exact status of their "honeymoon." The German's face was very honestly happy, and the little dancer was brimming with restless life and vivacity.

"It was the picture in my watch—him?" The picture I carry night and day," Frederick repeated in needless explanation, and was about to draw out the picture when Billy restrained him.

He had a favor to ask. The American girl of Kerisken's palace had escaped unhurt and returned to her friends who were ignorant of all. She was this moment in the ruins. It would be a great shock to her to meet Fritz, to have Fritz recognize her. On the morning she would be gone. Would Fritz—

"Fritz must disappear—for the night!" said the little Viennese smiling wisely, but with a trace of cynicism. "The little American must not be reminded—h'm? We will go . . . For you have done so much for me, you big, strange, platonic Mr. Billy!" Dazzlingly she smiled on him, her dark eyes quizzically provocative.

"You're not at the Grand?"

"No, not that." She named another. "You come see me, when that girl goes—h'm?"

Billy caught the German's eyes upon him, in their depths a faint trouble, a vague appeal. He comprehended that the intimated young man had engaged in the tortuous business of keeping sparks from kindling.

"I'm gone tomorrow," he replied. "Maybe in Vienna?" went on the dancer. "We go soon—another day or so maybe—and then back over the water to that life I left! Oh, my God, how happy I am to go back to it all—to dance, to sing— Oh, I could kiss you Mr. Billy, if it would not make you so shocked!" she added with a malicious little laugh. "You know the news—about him—h'm?"

"Him?"

"Barisken—that devil fellow. He came with a fever—in the hospital just tells us—just by the way he told us. A bad fever, too. She laughed in satisfaction. "I hope he burn good and hard up," she added, with energetic spite, "and teach him not to act like a wild man. That man say he got a bad hand," she added, with a fateful glance at Billy.

The young man merely grunted. "I hope he has," he replied. "It matches the rest of him." Good night.

"Good night—for the now—h'm. Mr. Billy!" and with a quick little clasp of his big hand and a gay little backward look the girl was gone into the shadows upon the arm of her jealous cavalier.

Three people were waiting at the statue foot where he had left the English girl.

"They've come at last, Mr. Hill," Lady Claire's voice struck very gaily upon him, "and Miss Falconer has just come to tell us we must see the colored lights in the great court—and then go home. So hurry!"

She turned as she spoke and put her arm suddenly thru Falconer's who was standing next her. "Come on," she lightly commanded, and promptly led the way.

That was something like a fairy godmother! Into Billy's eyes flashed a warm light of gladness. Some moments out of that wretched evening should yet be his own, bitter-sweet as they were in their story quality.

He turned to the blue-cloaked figure at his side. "Do you like colored light?" he demanded. "Want you come and see something else—something I've wanted to see and to have you see with me? It's near the way out. We can meet them at the pylon."

Of course she acquiesced. That was part of the surreal romance between them. He was reminded to have her accept so obediently any point-black request of his. But for the moment he was glad. He wanted those few minutes desperately.

"What is it?" she murmured. "I'll show you," and then, as he turned from the way they had come and followed a winding path that dipped lower and lower between the dune-like piles of sand, "It's the Sacred Lake," he explained. "Perhaps you've seen it in the distance—but I've been wanting to see it at night."

"I think I just caught the glint of it from the pylon," she observed. "You had time to?" said Billy, trying to twinkle down at her in friendly fashion.

She did not twinkle back. She looked as suddenly guilty as a kitten in the cream, and Billy's heart smote him heavily. He did not speak again till they had rounded a corner and their path had brought them out upon the shore of the Sacred Lake.

Like a little horseshoe it circled about three sides of the ruined temple of the goddess Mut, ink-black and motionless with the stars looking up uncannily like drowned light from its still waters, and ink-black and motionless, like guardian spirits about it, sat a hundred cat-headed women of grim granite. It was a spot of stark loneliness and utter silence, of ancient terror and desolate abandonment; the solitude and the blackness and theaching age smote upon the imagination like a heavy hand upon hazy strings.

"Who are they?" Arlee spoke in a hushed voice, as if the cat-headed women were staining their ears.

"They're mysteries," said Billy, speaking in the same low tone.

Generally they're said to be statues of the Goddess Pasht or Sekhet—but it's a riddle why the Amen-hotep person who built this temple to the goddess Mut should have put Sekhet here. Sekhet is in the trinity of Memphis—and Mut in that of Thebes. And so some people say that this is not Pasht at all, but Mut herself, who was sometimes represented as lion-headed. Between a giant cat and a lion, you know, there's not much of difference."

"I like Pasht better than Mut," said Arlee decidedly.

"There you agree with Baedekker."

"What did Pasht do?"

"She was goddess of girls," said Billy, "and young wives. She got the girls husbands and the wives—er—their requests. Girls used to come down here at night and make a prayer to her and cast an offering into the waters."

"And then they had their prayer?"

"Instalibly."

"I'd like a guardian like that," said Arlee, with a sudden mischievous wistfulness that played the chicken with Billy's forces of reserve. "Do you think she'd grant my prayer?"

"Have you one to make?" said Billy, staring very hard for safety at the monstrous images.

"They look as if they were coming alive," he added.

PICKING ALL-AMERICAN ELEVEN FROM GALAXY OF STARS

Football's greatest year! Nineteen-twenty will go down in gridiron annals as such, and without exaggeration.

No season in the history of the game has been so colorful. Few seasons that have gone before have developed such a brilliant crop of backfield stars, and never before have the crowds at football classics been as large or public interest in the game as keen as it has been this fall.

With the fading out of the football schedule comes the picking season. The selection of mythical eleven representative of the country's best talent is in order. And what a task this year! Football came back in fairly good shape just after the war, but the season of 1919 found its ranks filled with new coaches and players. The period given to the coaches to get talent lined up and mould smooth-working eleven was all too short, and as a result the quality of the game suffered.

This year it was different. Coaches and players stood on solid ground once again and the grand old game came back with greater vigor than ever before. The new style of play—the open game—was seen at its best, and the players who carry the ball had a chance to shine more brightly than ever.

DIFFICULT TO CHOOSE
Picking all-American teams is a ticklish task and the opinions of those who do the picking often vary. The selection of one critic or another can be honestly offered for what it is worth in the way of building up a combination of stars.

The eleven herewith presented by the writer have been chosen after careful consideration. Anyone of these three teams would undoubtedly be a winner. Each would combine experience with superb driving power, strong defensive ability, a knowledge of the new style of play and an abundance of football sense.

Stars among the wingmen and lineemen were scarce this year, when compared with the abundance of backfield men who thrilled crowds all over the country with their wonderful and spectacular playing. But there were quite a few good ends and plenty of seasoned and highly capable lineemen.

END POSITIONS
Legendre, of Princeton, and Kiley, of Notre Dame, are given the positions on the writer's first eleven with Carney, Illinois, and Belding, Iowa, on the second team, and Weston, of Wisconsin, and Swanson, of Nebraska, on the third eleven.

Legendre and Kiley are speedy, rangy and rugged. Both are great defensive players who are waiting to tackle the man who catches the ball. Both can handle the forward pass and have the speed to go out and grab many a pass that may not be thrown accurately. At breaking up or sifting thru interferences, the two wingmen are adepts. Kiley, who tried to circle their ends this season found that gaining ground around them was well nigh impossible. Kiley, in particular, is a star in handling passes. The ends named for the second and third eleven are not far removed from these two in all-around ability.

BEST OF TACKLES
The tackles, Keck, of Princeton, and Gulick, of Syracuse, are towers of strength in the line. Keck, in addition to being an all-around line-man, is fast on his feet for a big fellow and a hard and sure tackler. He is also an expert place kicker and did most of Princeton's kicking of goals from touch-down.

Gulick is a roving tackle of the kind who forces the opposition to give him a wide berth rather than send plays against his position. Liked to play against his feet and Keck, he is a wonderful player both on offense and defense. It was Gulick who scooped up a fumbled ball in the Pitt-Syracuse game and ran half the length of the field for a touch-down that saved Syracuse from defeat and wound up the contest in a 7 to 0 tie. Other great tackles are Sedgwick, of Harvard; Coughlin, the great Notre Dame line-man; Dickens, Yale's plucky and versatile tackle, and Clyde King, of the Navy, who is a fine kicker as well as a great tackle in every respect.

GUARDS AND CAPTAINS
With these ends and tackles place Griffiths, of Penn State, and Captain Tim Callahan, of Yale, at the guards, and inject Alexander, of Syracuse, into the line at center, and what a line you would have! It would be a veritable stone wall—a forward defense that no one could be expected to puncture for consistent runs.

Callahan, who played with a losing team, stands out above any guard in the country. He is, you might say, in a class by himself because of his fighting spirit and versatility. He knows his position inside out and he has the strength, speed and grit to play it superbly. Griffiths, likewise, is a guard of great value, as good a guard as any coach could ask for. Both men are capable of breaking thru the enemy defense to block kicks and in offensive defensive play they are truly a pair of aces.

Alexander, chosen as a guard last season on many all-American teams, played at center this year for Syracuse and displayed ability that surprised his closest admirers. He is a roving center, an accurate passer of the ball and can play in the line as well. He drives forward with great power and makes himself felt on defense because he can help break up plays on either side of the line, or break thru to block kicks and nip other plays in the bud.

There are other fine guards and centers to be considered. Taylor, of Ohio State; McGuire, of Chicago; Mohr, of Illinois; and Woods, of Harvard, are wonderfully capable guards. Cunningham, Dartmouth center, has not made a wild pass to his back in several seasons, has not had time taken out for him and has played a wonderfully consistent offensive and defensive game. Captain Day, Nebraska's stocky pivot man, is another great center and he makes up in ability what he lacks in height, for he is one of the shortest centers on the Western circuit.

QUARTERBACK STARS
Out of a myriad of great quarterbacks who have flashed across the football horizon this season, both Louie, of Princeton, and Taylor, of the first eleven, are chosen for the first eleven. Here is a player who has everything a quarterback should have—rare judgment in directing the play of his team, wonderful speed, accuracy in handling the forward pass and natural ability to carry the ball. He is one of the greatest open-field runners in the country and his all-around work thru out the season stamps him as a quarter of the calibre who would be the envy of any coach.

Louie had many rivals for the heaviest of the Western circuit, but his individual point score in the country, and McMullan, of Centre, last year's all-American quarterback, were close to him in all-around efficiency. Buell, Harvard's crack quarterback; Fitzgerald, also of Harvard; Murray, Louisville's star; and Fletcher, of Illinois, and Workman, of Ohio State, were among the players who pressed the Princeton star closely.

CHOICE OF HALFBACKS
George Glipp, Notre Dame, and Charley Way, Penn State, are awarded the halfback positions. The wonderful playing of these two speedy, smashing backs can be but poorly described. Both are players of twin-six power. Each is capable of tearing off long runs or ripping up the line, as the occasion demands. In tearing thru a broken field or picking a hole in an opposing line these sure-footed halfbacks displayed uncanny ability and at the passing game they were a constant menace to the enemy. "T. N. T." in mole-skin comes closer to describing this work of this pair than anything we can think of.

Glipp, who is also a great kicker, stood out in bold relief in accounts of nearly every game played by the unbeaten Notre Dame eleven this year. Late in the season he received an injury to one of his shoulders that kept him on the sidelines, but he displayed enough in the games in which he appeared to stamp him as an all-American star. The same may be said of Charley Way, who, with the exception of the scoreless game played between Pitt and Penn State on Thanksgiving Day, was good for a touch-down nearly any time Penn State needed a score.

The 1920 crop of star halfbacks was naturally much larger than the quarter-back crop. Glipp and Way had many keen competitors for the honor of being placed on the mythical first eleven. Just a few of these are Stinchcombe, Ohio State; Davies, Pittsburgh; Flowers, Georgia Tech.; Owen and Churchill, Harvard; Walquist, Illinois; Whitnell, Centre,

Beck, West Virginia, and Hartley, Nebraska.

PICKING THE FULLBACKS

The fullback job is given to Captain Arnold Horween, of Harvard. Here is one of the most consistent fullbacks of many a season. The Crimson leader, as a power in Harvard's backfield in every big game thru out the season. He ripped up opposing lines for consistent gains and on defense was a tower of strength in Harvard's secondary taring. On offense, when he did not carry the ball, he helped the Crimson line-men tear gaping holes in the opposing line, often taking out two men in his diagonal plunges, directed against the tackle. He is exceptionally fast for a big man and keeps his feet well. Stopping Horween was a man's sized job for any line. In addition, the Crimson captain is a kicker of great ability, capable of booting the ball with power and accuracy from almost any position within the 40-yard line.

Crangle, of Illinois, and French, of the Army, rank close to Horween. Crangle is a man of great strength and endurance, a fullback who is good for from two to four yards after he hits the secondary line of defense. French, a great line plunger, a speed-merchant in the open and a kicker of marked ability played with consistent brilliancy thru out the season.

Scheerer, of Princeton; Wynn, of Notre Dame; Roberts, of Centre, and Don Whiting, star of the Marietta College eleven, were among the ranking fullbacks of the year.

COURT HELPS BASEBALL BY NEW RULING

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The District Court of Appeals last Monday reversed the recent judgment for $261,000 granted by the District Supreme court against the major league clubs, and in favor of the Baltimore Orioles club, which claimed a violation of the anti-trust laws by the use of the "reserve clause" in the players' contracts.

The appellate court held that playing baseball did not constitute interstate commerce, as defined by United States Supreme court decisions, and that the anti-trust law did not apply. The "reserve clause" imposed restrictions, the court held, which related directly to the preservation of the personnel of the clubs and did not affect the movement of the Federal league clubs. Any ill effect was merely accidental, the court found.

MAY GO TO SUPREME COURT
Counsel for the Baltimore club announced that an attempt would be made to carry the case to the Supreme court for review.

A verdict for $8,000 was awarded by the jury when the former Federal league club's contention was upheld in the lower court. As provided by the anti-trust laws, the amount of the judgment was tripled and an attorney's fee of $21,000 was added, bringing the total judgment up to $261,000.

TO GIVE PARTY FOR EVERS
CHICAGO—Chicago baseball fans will welcome Johnny Evers, former second baseman and now manager of the Cubs, back to the fold with a banquet and home-coming party here tonight. Reservations indicate that close to 1,000 lovers of baseball from all walks of life will attend.

REVIEW OF CURRENT ATHLETIC EVENTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK.—International victories scored in the yacht races and the Olympic games by America probably will have another mate when the "two Bills" of tennis get thru in Australia the last of this month.

William T. Tilden, British and American champion and William M. Johnston, national title holder, are going after the Davis cup in a series of singles and doubles matches on December 28, 29 and 31.

Even in Australia the experts anticipate an American victory and a return of the cup to this country.

Both Tilden and Johnston, especially Tilden, are at the top of their game now, and it is doubtful if there are any two players in the world who can beat them.

If western teams have the luck or the quality of Notre Dame, the east will be in a bad way on the prospective big football games next season. Since 1909, Notre Dame has played 15 games in the east, winning 11, losing three and tying one. Since 1916, Hoosiers haven't lost a game in the east. Yale and West Point are the only teams that beat them previous to 1916, while West Point, Pittsburgh, Penn State, Syracuse and Washington and Jefferson have been their victims since that year.

Harvard, failing to get a game with Ohio State and the Army, because Crismon would not grant them a home game in 1922, has signed Indiana as a western opponent.

Ohio State, which is seeking a good eastern team to open the new million dollar stadium in 1922, can open relations either with Pennsylvania or the Naval academy, it is understood.

Notre Dame can go to the coast for a game with Southern California.

Bill Brennan says he turned his ankle and lost his former battle with Jack Dempsey. He's going into the hospital December 14 fortified with braces around his pedal extremities.

Brennan is to get $55,000 for swapping punches with the champion, which will be enough to tide him over the lean days if he has to spend three weeks in the hospital after this fracas.

Organization of a national boxing association to govern the ring sport like the ruling bodies of the track, the links, etc., will be attempted here soon by the International Sporting Club.

The governors of states where boxing is legal are being asked by the club to send representatives to the conference.

The meeting probably will be held this month.

OHIO BALL TEAM TO TAKE TRIP

DELAWARE.—Baseball games with Cornell and Syracuse Universities have been booked by Ohio Wesleyan, according to announcement made here. Coach H. H. House of Wesleyan expects to make the eastern trip May 21 and 22. He also hopes to sign for two more games in the east, with either Union College, Colgate or Niagara University or Hamilton College.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE FOR CONFERENCE IS ANNOUNCED

COLUMBUS.—Football schedules for Ohio conference colleges for the season of 1921 were made public Tuesday, following a meeting of the coaches and managers here Monday night.

Some of the schedules are incomplete. All of them are subject to approval by the respective college faculties. Changes may be made, altho they will probably stand as fixed here Monday night.

Those schools which did not complete their schedules while here, will arrange for the balance by correspondence.

Track and baseball schedules were incomplete and will be announced from time to time by the various colleges.

It was announced, however, that the dates for the annual big six track and field meet to be held in Columbus, will be May 27 and 28.

Coaches and officials of Ohio conference basketball games listened to an interpretation of the new basketball rules by L. W. St. John, director of athletics at Ohio State.

The Ohio conference will play according to the latest ruling that a player may be taken from and returned to the game once only. The officials voted to bar from conference football officials who officiate in professional football games. The conference athletic committee likewise passed a ruling barring from the coaching staffs any person who either officiates or participates in professional football.

The football schedules made public follow:

Cincinnati—October 1, Ohio Northern at Cincinnati; October 15, Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh; October 29, Wittenberg at Cincinnati; November 5, Ohio University at Athens; November 12, Dennison at Cincinnati; November 24, Miami at Cincinnati.

SO LONG LETTY

FILLS BILL

Husbands Are Cured of the Idea of Trading Wives

FILM NOVELTY PLEASES

Orpheum Has Excellent Program—Theatre News

(BY ETHEL WAGNER)

DOMESTIC troubles ought to take the air and soar away like the justly celebrated eagle after hubby and wife have seen "So Long Letty." You know the old saying about the other man's grass always looks greener or something like that? This picture is worked out along those lines.

Mr. Miller and Mr. Robbins loved home sweet home, as long as it was not their own. Mr. Miller found in Mrs. Robbins the ideal wife. How well she dressed, and cooked, and kept house! And Mr. Robbins fell hard for the charms of Mrs. Miller.

The ladies in the case were cognizant, but not complacent (so does express herself so well). And having been duly informed by the husbands that they (the husbands) are dissatisfied and want to trade wives via the divorce court, they decide to make it work both ways, and demand a trial of one week.

You see, the ladies have arranged it between them to make each other's husbands as comfortable as possible, for they really loved what had been wished on them at the altar. So at the end of the week Mr. Miller had to admit that Mrs. Miller was the only girl for him, and Mr. Robbins told Mrs. Robbins that he just couldn't do without her. The outcome is all that could be wished by any court of domestic relations.

A snappy cast, composed of Roy Barnes, Walter Horst, Grace Darmond and Colleen Moore, competently handle the roles assigned them. A number of Christie's bathing girls, who don't believe in wasting material on bathing suits, are seen in this production.

As a whole, "So Long Letty" is sparkling entertainment, and certainly it is well produced. The situations are capable of tickling the funny bone, besides giving opportunity for serious thought. On no account will it make you yawn and wonder when the two-reel comedy is coming on.

It's appearing at the Lyric.

"At The Orpheum"

THE program at the Orpheum the first half of this week is better than it has been for several weeks, and contains some things that are above the average vaudeville stuff.

For instance, take the headline attraction, the Beatrice Morelli Sextette. They sing the kind of music that is usually heard in opera houses and concert and hardly ever heard in vaudeville theatres. Are they good? Of course they are, if you appreciate that kind of music. A lot of people, you know can't see this high-brow music at all and much prefer the silly, racy kind.

Conway and Fields have about the best number of the remaining five acts. They don't sing or dance much—just talk to each other, and seem to enjoy it about as much as the audience does.

Lowery and Danmore, in "The Futuristic Bride" have some clever dances to offer and a song or two that pleases; Roth and Slater, in a comedy "wop" act, are unusually interesting and funny. The first lady ventriloquist I have heard, gives a fine exhibition of her art.

The program has a good send off, too, in Frank and Rex Warner, comic dancers.

Those are all the ingredients, I guess, and constitute what I would term a pretty complete bill. Heavens knows, you're the ones to be satisfied.

AT THE SIGMA:

"Body and Soul" is the feature attraction today at the Sigma theatre with Stuart Holmes and Alice Lake in the leading roles. Symphony orchestra daily, under the supervision of Mrs. B. L. Flinn.

Simple Phosphate Supplies Strength and Energy Building Elements That Modern Foods Lack

Just one or two little tablets of real organic phosphate dissolved in drug stores under the name of Bitro-Phosphate taken with each meal is probably just what you need to cause you to jump out of bed in the morning eager for the industrial battle of the day.

Modern foods lack sufficient phosphorus, and that is why 40 per cent. of men and women today are nervous, weak and run-down. Bitro-Phosphate is safe to take and Keltner's Extra-price Drug Store or any good drug store can supply it at reasonable cost.

"The Bunch That Was Found Again." Edith Stockton is playing leading roles in support of Alice Brady. Washington this week had the first showing of the new Douglas

Fairbanks picture, "The Mark of Zorro." Fatty Arbuckle is in Paris for a three weeks' visit. He takes a slow week-end airplane to London, but says he is returning promptly to Paris. Being interviewed, he remarked conservatively, "Paris isn't

MUTT AND JEFF—JEFF COMPARES A BATTLESHIP TO A RACE HORSE—

SHORT SHAVINGS

Little Jimmy, having been punished for naughtiness, started mumbling to himself.

"What are you doing now?" asked his mother.

"I'm swearin'," said the youngster. "But I'm chewin' it up so God won't hear me."

"Well," cried Mrs. Henpeck, "our son is engaged to be married. We will write to the dear lad and congratulate him."

Mr. Henpeck agreed (he dared not do otherwise), and his wife picked up her pen.

"My darling boy," read the son "what glorious news! Your father and I rejoice in your happiness. It has long been our greatest wish that you should marry some good woman. A good woman is heaven's most precious gift to man. She brings out all the best in him and

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly bear home without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for 2½ ounces of Pinex with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., 21 Wayne, Ind.

CONSTIPATION

Constipation can be permanently overcome by gently stimulating and soothing the liver and bowels to properly function. Discontinue the use of all cathartics and purchase a 30c vial from your nearest druggist of the greatest, mildest cathartic discovery of the age.
